To Lecture Committees, Literary Societies, Church Committees and Editors:

To the above, Mrs. Scott Saxton is prepared to offer a First-class Entertainment, consisting of Humorous and Dramatic Readings, in return for one-half the receipts of the evening; providing the entire management of the entertainment—procuring hall, advertising, printing, music, etc., is assumed by the party securing her services. Address,

MRS. SCOTT SAXTON,
Fourth and Green Sts., Louisville, Ky.

NOTE TO EDITORS.—I make to you the following liberal offer: For every pupil secured to the College through your advertising, I will allow you 25 per cent., or $25. (Terms, per course, $100.)

PROF. FRANK H. FENNO, A. M., of New York (author of Fenno's Science and Art of Elocution, which is being extensively used in the East and West, also a very successful lecturer), has been engaged as a permanent Professor in the College.

PROF. NOBLE BUTLER has also been engaged to take charge of the Department of Literature.

COURSE IN ELOCUTION.

This course has reference to the Oral Expression of Language, and includes Theory and Practice; Voice; Articulation; Reading; Dramatic recitation; Oratory.

GRADUATION.

Two terms, Junior and Senior, constitute the shortest course in which it will be possible for students to graduate. They occupy two terms of nine weeks each.

JUNIOR COURSE.

This term is devoted to a thorough Vocal Drill, the most careful and critical attention to correct and distinct Enunciation; Practice in the whole range of Expression, correcting monotony and all formalities of style, substituting variety of Expression; Gymnastic and Breathing exercises for the Development of Voice, the Symmetrical development of the body, and the preservation of health. Pupils will be taught to sit well, stand well, walk well, and to move the limbs gracefully.

SENIOR COURSE.

This term is devoted to a higher and wider range of readings and recitations, including Shakspeare; Daily Practice from the Platform (with an occasional drill in Hall or Theatre), by which the taste and judgment of the student is put to the test of Professional Criticism. The Common faults of speakers and Special points of Criticism are thoroughly discussed. Gesture and Facial Expression receive special attention.

*Author of Fenno's "Science and Art of Elocution." †Author of Butler's Grammars, Butler's Miscellany, American School Readers, etc.

COURSE IN ORATORY.

This Course has reference to the Composition and Style of Language, as well as to its oral Expression. It includes, prominently, Conversation, English Language, History*, Rhetoric, Literature, Composition, Criticism, Critical Shakespeare, Logic*, Mental Science*, Moral Philosophy.

During the Course great attention is given to the delivery of Original Discourse, both extemporaneous and prepared; a hall or theatre is frequently used for the purpose.

A short course of study in Parliamentary Usage will be given during the year.

To complete the Course in Oratory will require two terms of thirty-six weeks each. This course includes the full course in Elocution.

Students who do not wish to take this entire Course, may arrange to pursue Special Studies. Ministers, lawyers, lecturers and doctors should, by all means, take the Course in Oratory.

LECTURE COURSE.

Lectures upon the several topics announced will be continued throughout the Course.

HISTRIONIC TRAINING.

Pupils receive at the College thorough training for the Stage.

MONDAY RECEPTIONS.

Every Monday Night the pupils of the College give a Reception to their relatives and friends. The programme consists of Readings, Recitations, Short Plays or parts of plays, and Music. This opportunity to become familiar with an audience, is invaluable; it cultivates self-possession, ease and gracefulness of manner; and it stimulates the student to prepare pieces from week to week. Each piece receives a thorough drill by a member of the Faculty. These entertainments are made both delightful and instructive, and are considered a feature in the College.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

At the close of the Junior, Senior and Post Graduate Courses, Public Entertainments are given by the members of the classes.

Other entertainments are occasionally given throughout the college year.

COMMENCEMENTS.

At the close of the year's course there will be a Prize Contest for a Gold Medal, to be awarded by a Board of Judges (selected by the graduates), to that member of the class deemed by them most worthy of the First Honor of the College.

DIPLOMAS AND DEGREES

Are conferred upon those who have completed the prescribed course entitling them to the same.

ELOCUTION.

The fall term of Junior Course will begin September 5th. The winter Junior Course will begin January 7th. Commencement will take place May 12, 1882.

INTRODUCTORY.

The third Biennial issue of the KENTUCKY STATE GAZETTEER AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY is now presented to the public. The publishers have already earned a national reputation for the care with which all their previous publications are compiled, and a glance at the one just out proves that it is no exception to the rule. In addition to giving the names of all persons doing business in the State, a brief sketch of every city, town and village is contained herein; also a most complete classified directory of all businesses and professions, as well as a mass of useful information and statistics pertaining to the commercial and manufacturing interests of the State at large. A work of this kind necessarily involves a great amount of labor, and the expenditure of large sums of money, neither of which have been withheld, the aim of the publishers being to make it, in every respect, creditable to themselves and worthy the confidence and support of the public.

The publishers desire to express their thanks to the business men of the State for the patronage and support accorded them. Many pages of advertising matter appear in it, a feature which renders it particularly interesting and serviceable, and which, at the same time, speaks well for the enterprise of Kentuckians. This book is larger, by more than a hundred pages, than any previous issue of the work, the conclusion, of course, being that the State has, within the last two years, made very rapid advancement. On this fact we congratulate the citizens. The outlook for the future is bright, and every thing indicates that the State has before it a career of success never before equaled.

KENTUCKY.

This State, ranking the eighth in wealth, population and importance in the Union, dates its first settlement back to about 1760, at which time it formed a portion of the State of Virginia. The act admitting it as a separate State was passed February 4, 1791, and the admission took effect June 1, 1792. It is situated between latitude $36^{\circ} 30'$ and $39^{\circ} 06'$ north, and longitude $53^{\circ} 00'$ and $12^{\circ} 38'$ west from Washington, comprising 24,115,200 acres, or nearly 40,000 square miles, and contains a total population according to the census of 1860, of 1,048,708, of which 271,522 are colored. Comparison with the previous census report (1850) shows that, in the decade last past, Kentucky has increased her population at a ratio of twenty-five per cent. The surface of the State is an elevated plateau, sloping from the Cumberland mountains on the south-east to the Mississippi and Ohio rivers on the north and west. It lies within the Mississippi basin, and within the special division of the Ohio valley. The average elevation 1,000 feet above the sea. The numerous rivers penetrating all parts of the State have worn their channels deep enough to secure ample drainage to the lands, with few exceptions. It has a river boundary of 813 miles; by the Chattahoochee or Big Sandy, on the north-east, 120 miles; by the Ohio, on the north, 643 miles, and by the Mississippi, on the west, 50 miles. The principal rivers have their source in the Cumberland mountains, and afford to all parts of the State river communication with the Ohio and entire Mississippi-river system. No State has a frontage on navigable rivers equal to Kentucky. This insures cheap transportation in the future for the abundant forests and large deposits of coal and iron ores contiguous to the streams. As a whole, the surface of Kentucky includes a larger area of very fertile, and a less area of barren soil, than any other equal area in a State so rich in mineral wealth. The production of these soils includes the whole of the crops of the Mississippi valley, except the sugar-cane; corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, hemp, flax, and sorghum, are grown over its whole area. All the ordinary fruits attain their perfection here. Cotton is raised as a crop in the south-western region. Tobacco is more extensively cultivated here than in any other State in the Union. The best natural grass-lands of the continent are found here. The blooded horses of the State are, perhaps, the most famous of its exports. Its remarkable superiority in this regard is due in part to the care given thereto, and is, in the main, the result of the peculiarly favorable effects of a combination of circumstances, in which soil, climate, and water all have place. Cattle and sheep also do well here. The climate here, as in all America, is variable; it is, however, much less so in Kentucky than in the States farther north. The average temperature is about 55° Fahr. It is rare to have the thermometer below zero, and it never remains twenty-four hours below that point.

The summers, although warm, are not oppressive. The rainfall is about forty-eight inches per annum along the Ohio river, increasing toward the south-east to about sixty inches at the eastern extremity. This is distributed with fair regularity throughout the year.

As regards proximity to markets, this State has peculiar advantages. Reference to a map will show that it is the most centrally placed in the group of States east of the Rocky mountains; from its geographical centre it is about an equal distance to Maine, Florida, Southern Texas and Minnesota. The State of Colorado, the great Lakes and the mouth of the Mississippi fall in the sweep of the same line. The existing railroads of the State are, on the whole, good, and well laid out, to make them a system of trunk lines exceedingly well adapted to the development of her resources. The Louisville and Nashville Railroad with its numerous branches extend through and form a network between Louisville, New Orleans and all points South. This road, the largest in the State, is now controlling 2,500 miles. Having within the last few years absorbed the smaller roads through the south and south-western part of this State, now forms a most complete link with the whole system of Southern railroads. Next in importance to the State is the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington, from Cincinnati south-west to Louisville and from thence east to Lexington and Mt. Sterling. A line now in course of construction (the Ashland Coal and Iron Railroad) will shortly connect the eastern terminus of this road with the Chesapeake and Ohio road, and this, when completed, will give Kentucky what she most needs, a direct line to the eastern seaboard. The importance of the Cincinnati Southern Railway cannot but be perceived at once, traversing the whole State, north and south, and crossing the bluegrass lands on their longest and best section. The Kentucky Central Railway opens up the trade of the bluegrass region, the finest agricultural section of the State. The Paducah and Elizabethtown Railroad penetrates Western Kentucky in such a manner as to afford easy access to a large portion of that section. The Eastern Kentucky Railway runs through the counties of Greenup and Carter, and, if expectations are fulfilled, will eventually form a much needed line through south-eastern Kentucky. The New Orleans and St. Louis, and the Memphis, Paducah and Northern, in the south-western portion, assist in forming through lines from that section to St. Louis and New Orleans.

The mineral resources of Kentucky are very extensive. It is the only State having within its borders parts of the two great coal-fields. The area of coal is over 12,700 square miles, exceeding the area of the Pennsylvania coal-fields, or the entire coal area of Great Britain and Ireland. In the eastern portion of the State, especially, iron abounds and has as yet hardly reached a fraction of the possibilities of production. The greater part of the ore territory of the State is as yet untouched by the pick of the miner.

About 50 per cent. of the area of the State is primitive forests, abounding in a great variety of valuable timber, among which are oak, maple, ash, yellow poplar, black walnut, hickory, lynn, beech, chestnut and red cedar. The financial condition of Kentucky is most excellent. The State is practically free from debt, owing but $180,000, and having on deposit in the bank holding the bonds an amount more than enough to pay off the same.

Without indulgence in excessive claims, we may reasonably expect for Kentucky in the time to come a substantial growth proportionate to her natural advantages. Another century will, doubtless, see the Ohio Valley the great seat of those productions that require cheap power and cheap food for their making, bringing a population equal to that of the equal areas of the great European States.

COMMERCIAL AND COLLECTION LAWS OF KENTUCKY.

PREPARED BY R. T. COLSTON.

Arrest and Bail.—A defendant in a civil action can be arrested and held to bail only upon an affidavit of the plaintiff showing—

1. The name of the plaintiff's claims.
2. That it is true.
3. The sum or value, which the defendant believes the plaintiff is entitled to.

act is shown to be a bona fide purchase, and the defendant is not liable for the debt, and the property is removed from the estate, as previously stated, and it is ordered that the process of the court in enforcement of said debt be dissolved, and that the defendant be discharged from the execution of said writ, and the sheriff be ordered to deliver up the property to the plaintiff, in the possession of him, or of his agent, for his use, and is directed to deliver from the property without having previously thereon been levied to satisfy the plaintiff's claim. The court's arrest can not be resumed, the clerk until he is ordered in his office with good security to be given, that the plaintiff shall file to the satisfaction of the court within a day, or sustain by reason of the arrest, if the order be wrongfully obtained, not more, and double the amount of the damages to be paid in the execution. It is the duty of the sheriff to return the defendant when arrested to the county jail, his country, unless he pay the debt, with interest, and in the hands of the sheriff, or the court, the sum of money mentioned in the order of arrest, and if he should be imprisoned from arrest, he may be given by the defendant on his arrest, at any time afterward before judgment, becoming bound with good security to the plaintiff, to answer that if judgment shall be rendered in the action against the defendant, he will render himself amenable to the process of the court thereupon, and if he must be a resident of this State, and is worth more than the sum specified in the order of arrest to be paid the amount of his debts and have property in this State, subject to execution, at least, and it is value to that sum. If two or more persons, and if they must in the agreement, possess the real estate. The defendant may at any time after his arrest upon reasonable notice to the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, deliver to said party, his agent or attorney a schedule of the property intended to be surrendered, and upon taking the insolvent debtor's oath, be discharged from arrest. It is the duty of the sheriff to take charge of, and sell of the property and effects of the defendant the titled in the schedule and after debiting commissions pay over the proceeds to the creditors.

An insolvent debtor is not required to surrender such of his effects as are exempted by law from execution.

Assignment for Benefit of Creditors.—A debtor may, by deed, which should be acknowledged and recorded, make an assignment to a trustee for the benefit of all his creditors. Before proceeding to execute the trust, the assignee or trustee must take an oath

[illegible]

After the payment of the debts and the expenses of the estate under the assignment, and the proceeds and sale of all other assets and the income or rental thereon, and must be paid ratably in the same proportion to the estate and the assets and income or rental accruing with the debt, until the debt is actually paid in full for payment to be made, being an action in equity. For a creditor of the estate and a creditor from the trust. In such action, the creditor takes the duty of the court to make an order for the creditors to appear before a trustee, chosen to be appointed by the court, and prove their claims before a certain day named in the order. A creditor appearing before the trustee, and presenting his claim, becomes thereby a party to the action, and is bound by the final judgment of the court, allowing or rejecting his claim. Creditors failing to appear and prove their claims, or equality to such order, have no claim against the trustee who has actually paid out the certain expenses of Administration, and to creditors, but their claims against the debtor remain in full force and unaffected by the assignment. The acceptance of a dividend under the assignment does not discharge the debtor as to the residue of the debt remaining unpaid.

Attachment.—The plaintiff may at or after the commencement of an action, have an attachment against the property of the defendant, including goods, . . . security for the satisfaction of such judgment as may be recovered in an action for the recovery of money against—

1. A corporation that who is a foreign corporation, e.g. a non-resident of the State; or,
2. Who has been absent therefrom four months; or,
3. Has departed therefrom with intent to defraud his creditors; or,
4. Has left the country of his residence to avoid the service of a summons; or,
5. So conceals himself that a summons cannot be served upon him; or,

6. Is about to remove, or has removed, his property, or a material part thereof, out of the State, not leaving enough therein to satisfy the plaintiff's claim, or the claims of said defendant's creditors; or

7. Has sold, conveyed, or otherwise disposed of, his property, or any part thereof, or permitted it to be sold, with the fraudulent intent to cheat, hinder or delay, his creditors; or

8. Is about to sell, convey, or otherwise dispose of, his property, with such intent.

But an attachment shall not be granted on the ground that the defendant is a foreign corporation, or a non-resident of the State, for any claim other than a debt or demand arising upon a contract, express or implied, or a judgment or award.

II. If an attachment is granted, a writ shall issue upon a certified statement of assets if the defendant has no property in the State subject to execution or attachment needed to satisfy the plaintiff's demand, and the collection of the demand will be endangered, by delay in obtaining judgment, or a return of no property found.

III. If an action to recover the possession of personal property, which has been or is being delivered to the plaintiff and which property, or part thereof, has been a special deposit or removed so that the order for its delivery cannot be executed by the State, the value of the order, whether or not paid for, shall be the order for its return upon an affidavit of the plaintiff filed in his office, showing—

1. The nature of the plaintiff's claim.

2. That it is just.

3. The sum which the affiant believes the plaintiff ought to recover; and,

4. The existence of a lien of the grounds for an attachment mentioned in sections I, II, and III, above or in the case mentioned in section III, if it be shown by such affidavit, or by the return of the sheriff upon the order for the delivery of the property claimed, that the facts mentioned in that subdivision exist.

The order of attachment cannot be issued by the clerk until a bond has been executed in his office by one or more sufficient sureties on the plaintiff to the effect that the plaintiff shall pay to the defendant all damages which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, or if the order be wrongfully obtained, the exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim. If a writ of attachment is issued against a defendant, they shall take possession according to the time of their delivery to the sheriff, except if the property attached be a fund in court, they shall be released out of it immediately. An attachment may be levied upon any property, either real or personal belonging to the defendant, or in which he has an interest, either legal or equitable. The sheriff is not allowed to execute an attachment upon personal property held by the defendant in the attachment, jointly or in common with another person, until a bond be executed to such other person by one or more sufficient sureties of the plaintiff, to the effect that he shall pay to such person the damages he may sustain by the wrongful seizure out of the order, not exceeding double the amount of the plaintiff's claim.

If an officer who levies, or is required to levy an attachment upon personal property doubts whether it is subject to attachment, he may demand of the plaintiff a bond to be executed with good surety, to indemnify him against any damage he may sustain by reason of the levy of the attachment, and if the bond be not executed within a reasonable time after the demand, he may refuse to make the levy or may release any property already levied upon. An attachment binds the defendant's property, in the county, which might be seized under execution against him, from the time of the delivery of the order to the sheriff and the lien is completed by the levy of the attachment.

Bonds, Bills and Notes.—All bonds, bills or notes for money or property are assignable by statute, so as to vest the right of action in the assignee, but, except in cases of bills of exchange, promissory notes placed upon the bottom of secured contracts, orders and checks, such assignment can not transfer the right to any defense, discount or offset that the defendant had and might have used against the original obligee of any intermediate assignor before notice of the assignment. In case of an assignment of a thing in action, if the assignment be not authorized by statute, the assignee must be a party to a suit, as plaintiff or defendant. Promissory notes, payable to any person or persons, or to a corporation, and payable and negotiable at any bank incorporated under any law of this Commonwealth, or provided in the Commonwealth, under any law of this State, which shall be indorsed to and discounted by the bank at which the same is payable, or by any other of the banks in this Commonwealth, as shall be specified, are by statute placed upon the same footing as foreign bills of exchange. Bills, drafts or checks, payable to bearers or to order, or to third parties, where indorsed to a bank or payable and discounted and treated in all respects as if indorsed to a bank, except as to the value of the currency in which they are payable. All parties to bills and promissory notes, placed upon the footing of bills of exchange and to certain orders and checks, are jointly liable and may, all or any of them, be sued as defendants in the same suit, at the plaintiff's option. As to all other bills and notes the holder must first pursue the law or its insurance before proceeding against the indorser. Transfers of price are allowed by law of all foreign bills of exchange, but it is the custom of banks to all the three days of grace upon all negotiable paper. The assignment of a note carries with it all securities given for its payment.

Execution against Property.—No execution can issue on any judgment, unless ordered by the court, until after the expiration of ten days from the rendition thereof, and when issued, it binds the estate of the defendant only from the time the same is delivered to the proper officer for execution. All executions must be returnable to some rule day of the court, not less than thirty nor over seventy days from the test. They may be levied on any personal property of the defendant, not exempt, and any land to which he has a legal title in fee, for life or for a term, whether in possession, reversion or remainder. If there is not enough of personal property, the officer may go on land at the same time and sell a sufficiency to satisfy the execution. An execution on a judgment for money, except to enforce a lien, may be returned for three months at any time before a sale of the property under the same by the defendant, giving bond with good surety for the amount thereof including interest, costs and half commissions up to that time.

The owner of personal estate taken in execution may have the possession of same restored to him by giving bond with good surety to have the property forthcoming at the time and place of sale, specifying therein such article of property and its value.

Where the right to replevy exists and is not exercised, sales under execution must be on a credit of three months and the purchaser is required to execute a bond with good surety, bearing interest from date, for the purchase price.

All sale bonds, replevy bonds and forthcoming bonds have the force and effect of a judgment, and if not paid at maturity an execution may issue and must be endorsed that no surety of any kind is to be taken.

Personalty may be sold at or in the vicinity of the place of levy in ten days after the levy, the time and place of sale and a description of the property being first advertised, by setting up written notices ten days preceding at three of the most public places in the vicinity of the place of sale.

The officer making the sale of land under execution must first advertise the time and place of making the same for fifteen days next preceding the sale, and cause it to be called under oath by two disinterested intelligent housekeepers of the county, not related to either party. If the land sold does not bring two-thirds of the valuation, the defendant and his representatives shall have the right to redeem the same within a year from the day of sale, by paying the purchaser or his representative the original purchase money and ten per centum per annum interest thereon. Lands sold under execution, which is subject to redemption cannot be conveyed by the officer making the sale until the expiration of one year from the sale, and the defendant is entitled to possession until the date of redemption expires. The right of redemption may be waived in writing. When the defendant in an execution owns the legal title to lands encumbered by lien for the purchase money or who sold on the legal title in any real or personal estate, and shall have received a bona fide encumbrance thereon, by mortgage, deed of trust, or otherwise, before an execution is entered a lien on such property may be sold subject to such encumbrance. The purchaser of such property acquires a lien on said property for the purchase money and interest at the rate of ten per centum per annum from the day of sale until paid, subject to the prior encumbrances and to the possession of the movable property is not affected thereby, and shall give an obligation with a surety, payable on demand, and the owner, that the property shall not be removed out of the county and shall be preserved and forthcoming, upon the defendant's execution, to answer the encumbrance and to be redemption.

Against the Person.—A writ of ad quod damnum may issue except against females, upon all judgments for trespass et c. upon the person or property, for seduction or for slander, written or verbal, or for malicious prosecution.

The death of a person imprisoned under a writ does not release his estate from liability to the plaintiff.

Limitations.—Actions for the recovery of real property can only be brought within fifteen years after the right to institute it first accrued to the plaintiff, or to the person through whom he claims. If the person, at the time the right of action accrued, was an infant, married woman, or of unsound mind, they, or any person claiming through them, have three years after the disability has been removed in which to bring the suit, though the period of fifteen years has expired. But the period within which an action for the recovery of real property may be brought, is not in any case extended beyond thirty years from the time the right of action first accrued to the plaintiff, or the person through whom he claims, by reason of any death, or the existence or continuance of any disability whatever. No action in law or equity can be brought under or by virtue of a will, or an interfering entry, survey or patent, to recover the title or possession of land from an occupant, where he, or the person under whom he claims, has a title thereto in law or equity, deviseable or record, in the Commonwealth, and has, or shall have had, an actual occupancy of the same by settlement thereon, under such title, for seven years before the commencement of the action. An infant, married woman, or person of unsound mind, has seven years after disability is removed in which to bring the suit. Civil actions, other than those for the recovery of real estate, must be commenced within the following periods: An action upon a judgment or decree of court of this State or the United States, or any State or Territory, to be computed from the date of the last execution; an action upon a bond or written contract, on official bonds, bonds executed in any suit for the forthcoming of property, the payment of money, or the performance of an order, or judgment of court to stay or suspend a proceeding, or sale, etc., must be commenced within fifteen years after the cause of action is incurred. An action upon a contract, not in writing, express or implied, a liability created by statute, or on any other time is void by the statute creating the liability; for to pass on real or personal property for the profits of, or damages for, withholding real or personal property; an action upon a bill of exchange; an action upon a contract concerning the trade of merchandise between merchant and merchant, or their agents, or a contract for relief on the ground of fraud or mistake; and an action to enforce the liability of bail, must be commenced within six years next after the cause of action accrued. An action for injury to the person, or for injuries to earth or stock, by neglect, or by any company or corporation, or action for malicious prosecution, conspiracy, fraud, seduction, criminal conversation, breach of promise of marriage, adultery or for libel or slander, and to remove any well, must be commenced within one year next after the cause of action accrued. An action upon a contract, or account for goods, wares or merchandise sold, and a hybrid, or any article charged in such account, shall be commenced within two years, commencing from the first day of January next succeeding the expiration of the term of the delivery of the several bills of lading by the account. A contract made under any judgment or decree after the first of January, without any execution being thereon, and prosecuted in and with in the county of record. A writ is also renewed on any land given in the course of any judicial proceeding, unless such be brought thereon within seven years after the date of its execution. A writ for an execution of administration, guardianship or curator, or similar, if a decedent's estate has been transferred, shall be discharged from all liability as such within two years so, it have elapsed, without suit, after the ending of the cause of action, and after the striking or failure by the devisor, distributee or ward.

Rule of Discovery.—After an execution of bona fide has been returned, a property bond to satisfy the same, the plaintiff in the execution may institute an action for the discovery of any money, chose in action, equitable or legal interest, and all other property to which the plaintiff is entitled, and for subjecting the same to the satisfaction of the judgment; and in such actions, persons indebted, to the defendant, or having money or property in which he has an interest, or holding evidence or securities for the same, may be also made defendants. In such action the plaintiff may have an attachment against a property of the defendant in the execution, without affidavit or bond. A lien is created on the property of the defendant by the levy of the attachment, or by service of the summons with the object of the action endorsed thereon, on the person holding or controlling his property. The court will order the surrender of the money or securities thereon, or of any property of the defendant in the execution, which may be discovered in the action, and for this purpose may commit to jail any defendant or garnishee refusing or refusing to make such surrender, until it shall be done, or until the court be satisfied that it is out of his power to do so.

Exemptions.—The following personal property is exempt from execution, attachment, distress or fee bill against a bona fide housekeeper with a family resident within this Commonwealth, viz: Two work beasts, or one work beast and one pair of oxen; two plows and gear; one wagon and a set of gear, or one cart or dray; two axes, two hoes, one spade and one shovel; two cows and calves; two beds, bedding and furniture for both; one team and spinning wheel, and pair of cards; all the spun yarn and manufactured cloth and carpeting manufactured by the family necessary for its use; carpeting for one room, whether manufactured by the family or not; one pot; one oven; one cooking stove and appendages; and other cooking utensils not exceeding twenty-five dollars in value; one dozen plates; one dozen cups and saucers; one coffee-pot; one tea-pot; one dozen knives and forks; one tin pot; the family Bible; all the school books on hand necessary for the education of the children; prayer and hymn-books; two saddles and their appendages; one bridle; six chairs, or so many as shall not exceed eight dollars in value; and the poultry on hand; the head of sheep; working apparel; a sufficiency of provisions, including meal, stuffs and animal food, to sustain the family one year; and if there be not a sufficiency of provisions on hand for that purpose, so much of the live stock suitable for that purpose, and if there be not a crop, if any, as may be necessary to supply the deficiency; provender sufficient to support the expected live stock one year; all appurtenances for washing, not exceeding fifty dollars in value; one bureau; one wardrobe; one washstand; one can, not to exceed fifty dollars in value; all arms, ammunition, and equipments of a militia company; one sewing machine, and all family pictures and pictures; also the tools of a mechanic, including one hundred dollars in value and if actually engaged in the prosecution of his mechanical business there shall be exempt in addition to the value of his property, such tools and materials, and labor in the process of manufacture, in value not exceeding two hundred dollars. If, however, the mechanic gives the exemption as to his tools, he is only entitled to the work beast instead of two. Also the libraries of all ministers of the gospel and the professional libraries of attorneys at law, the professional libraries and instruments of physicians and surgeons, not to exceed in value five hundred dollars; and there are not in addition to the two work beasts, wagon cart or dray heretofore mentioned. The wages, not to exceed fifty dollars of all persons who work for wages, are if such person have a family, exempt from attachment, garnishment or sale, but this exemption does not apply to debts contracted for food, clothing or house rent for the family. If, however, the laborer select a horse of greater value than one hundred and fifty dollars and a cow and calf exceeding the value of sixty dollars, the sheriff must have them appraised and sell them the insolvent debtor allowed out of the proceeds of sale the sums above specified.

Property exempt if in execution is also exempt from distress or attachment for rent, except for money or property furnished the tenant by the landlord, for the purpose of enabling the tenant to assist or to raise his crop, for which the landlord has a lien on the whole crop of the tenant raised on the leased or rented premises.

The uniform, arms, ammunition, and accoutrements required by law of every officer and soldier are exempt from all suits, distress, executions, sales for debts and the payment of taxes.

In addition to the personal property exempt from execution, there is, on all debts or liabilities created or incurred after the first day of June, 1850, exempt from sale in her execution, attachment, or judgment of any court, except to foreclose a mortgage given by the owner of a homestead, or for purchase money due thereon, so much of the clothing, bedding, house and appurtenances owned by the debtor, as shall not exceed in value $1000.

The exemption above mentioned applies to all persons of any race or color, who are bona fide housekeepers of this Commonwealth, but does not apply to suits under execution, attachment, or judgment at the suit of creditors, if the debt existed prior to the purchase of the land or the creation of the mortgage thereon.

The following list of articles are exempt from distribution and sale, and must be set apart to the widow or infant child or children by the appraisers of the estate of an intestate, to-wit: Two horses, or one horse and yoke of oxen; and, if not on hand, other property or money not to exceed in value $100 for each work horse or yoke of oxen; ten head of sheep; if none on hand, other property or money not to exceed $1.50 per head; two cows and calves; if none, other property or money not to exceed $20 for each cow and calf; all the poultry on hand; if none, other property or money not to exceed $5; all the spun yarn and manufactured cloth and carpeting manufactured by the family necessary for its use; if none, in lieu thereof, other property or money not to exceed $20; all of the working apparel; the family Bible and one table; or, in lieu of the family Bible and table, $5 each; one loom, spinning-wheel and cards; or, in lieu thereof, other property or money not to exceed $15; two beds, bedding and furniture; if not on hand, other property or money not to exceed $40 in value; eight one-half dozen plates; one-half dozen cups and saucers; one coffee-pot; one tea-pot; one-half dozen knives and forks; one oven and pot; if none on hand, other property or money not to exceed $10; if none, other property or money not to exceed $20; and other cooking utensils not exceeding $20 in value; but, if not on hand, nothing can be set apart in lieu thereof; one-half dozen chairs, or so many as shall not exceed $5 in value; and, if not on hand, other property or money not to exceed $5; one saddle and one pillion, together with bridle; if not on hand, other property or money in lieu thereof, not to exceed $15; one pig and year, or, in lieu thereof, if none on hand, other property or money not to exceed $10; one ax, one hoe; if none, other property not exceeding $1 each; one sewing-machine if on hand; if not, nothing must be set apart in lieu of it; a sufficiency of provisions, including bread-stuffs, to sustain the widow and infant children residing with her one year; and, if there is not a sufficiency of provisions on hand for that purpose, then so much of the live stock suitable for that purpose, and of the growing crop, if any, as may be necessary to supply the deficiency; and, if not on hand, other property or money, in lieu thereof, not exceeding $50 for the support of the widow and each infant child living with her. If there is an infant child or children, and no mother surviving, there must be set apart for the support of such infant child or children the articles aforesaid; and if such articles are not on hand, then other articles or money must be set apart in lieu thereof; but in no case must appraisers set apart, to either widow or child or children, property or money, in lieu of the articles allowed by law, of greater value in the aggregate than $750. Widows without infant children must have the property aforesaid set apart to them the same as if they had infant children residing in their family, except there must not be anything set apart for the support of infant children, if there be none residing in the family with the widow. The appraisers must state in their appraisement the articles, and value of each, set apart by them to widows or infants, separately from the articles appraised for sale. The above provisions apply to cases where the husband dies testate, and the widow renounces the provisions of the will in the time prescribed by law.

Interest.—Since the 1st day of April, 1878, the legal rate of interest has been 3 per cent, per annum and all contracts for a greater rate are void as to the excess over the legal interest. The amount loaned, with legal interest, must, may be recovered on any such contract, but if the lender refuse before suit is brought a tender of the principal, with legal interest, he must pay the costs of any suit brought on such contract. Partial payment on a debt bearing interest must be first applied to the extinguishment of the interest then due. A judgment, except for malicious prosecution, libel, slander, or injury to person, shall bear legal interest from its date, and may be for the principal and accrued interest. Any judgment or decree, or settlement by judgment out of the state, is presumed, unless the contrary be shown, to bear like interest, as if it had been incurred or the judgment rendered in this state. Judgments rendered upon any contract in writing, for the payment of money, made before the 1st day of April, 1778, bear the rate of interest provided for in the contract, if it was lawful at the time the contract for such rate of interest. If no rate is contracted for, judgments bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. Between September 1st, 1871 and September 1st, 1876 the legal rate of interest was 6 per cent., but 10 per cent. might legally be contracted for. Between September 1st, 1876 and April 1st, 1878 the legal rate was 6 per cent., but 8 per cent. might legally be contracted for.

Married Women.—All the property, real and personal, of the wife, however acquired, is her general estate unless vested with the character of separate estate, by the instrument under which she derives title. Marriage gives to the husband, during the life of the wife, no estate or interest in her real estate, including what is owned, owned at the time, or acquired by her after marriage, except the use thereof, with power to rent the real estate for not more than three years at a time and receive the rent. If, however, the wife, during the term for which her land is rented, the rent goes to the husband, if alive, subject to her debts, contracted before marriage, and for such contracted ante-marriage on account of necessities, for herself or any member of her family, the husband and wife, as shall be evidenced by writing signed by her. But if during such term the husband dies, the rent accruing thereafter shall go to her representative, subject to her debts as aforesaid. Such husband or rent is not liable for any debt or responsibility of the husband, contracted or incurred before, or after marriage, but is liable for the wife's debts or responsibilities contracted or incurred before marriage and for such contracted ante-marriage as are named above. The separate estate of a married woman, in both real and personal property, is such as she holds free from the debts and control of her husband and over the proceeds of which she has the absolute power of disposal. The husband owes to the wife in the conveyance of her separate estate. The wife's income from her separate estate and the property acquired by an investment of it, remains its separate character as long as she holds it.

A married woman can not bind herself by contract, but may bind her separate estate by contract, in writing, although she can not mortgage it to secure her husband's debts, whether the same was contracted prior to or simultaneously with the execution of the mortgage.

Where there is issue of the marriage born alive, the husband has an estate for his own life in all the real estate owned and possessed by the wife at the time of her death, or of which another may be then seized to her use. Such estates are, however, subject to the debts of the wife, whether contracted before or after marriage. After the death of the husband, the wife is entitled for her life to one-third of the estate with the husband, or any one for his use, was seized of an estate in fee simple at any time during the coverture, although there may have been no actual possession or recovery of possession by the husband in his life.

How it may be feared by the wife voluntarily leaving her husband and living in adultery, and by accepting a conveyance of the fee of real or personal estate by way of jointure, but if the wife is lawfully divorced, or any part thereof, and not by any act of her own, she is entitled to indemnity thereby by way of dower or dowers out of her husband's estate. She is entitled to one-third of the parts and profits of her husband's movable real estate from his death until dower is assigned and may hold the mansion house, yard, garden, the stocks and lot in which it stands, and an orchard if there is one adjoining any of the premises aforesaid, without charge therefor, until dower is assigned to her. There is here all claims to dower or dower.

If any stock in any of the banks or other corporations of this state is taken for or transferred to any female and it is expressed on the face of the certificate or transfer book of such stock that it is for the use of such female, no husband of hers has any interest in such stock or the dividends thereon; and at her death it passes to her heirs, but if unmarried, she may dispose of it by will, or if married, so dispose of it with the consent of her husband, or without such consent, if so provided in the deed or will creating the trust. She may receive the dividends and accumulate them, though married; but she can not anticipate the same, nor can any dividend be paid upon any order or power given by her, before the same is declared. Married women may make deposits in incorporated institutions authorized to receive deposits and their checks or receipts for the same are valid to the same extent as if they were not married.

The circuit court of the county of the wife's residence may, on satisfactory evidence, empower the wife to use, enjoy, sell and convey, for her own benefit any property she may own or acquire, free from the claims or debts of her husband, or to make contracts, sue and be sued, as a single woman, by will or deed.

1. Where the husband abandons the wife or fails to make sufficient provision for her maintenance or where he is confined in the penitentiary for an unexpired term of more than one year.

2. On the joint petition of husband and wife, or on the petition of the wife, the husband being made a party thereto.

A married who shall come to this State without her husband, he residing elsewhere, may acquire property, contract and bring and defend actions as an unmarried woman.

-OF-

NORTHERN MICHIGAN.

THE WATERS of the Grand Traverse region and the Michigan North Woods are unsurpassed, if equaled, in the abundance and great variety of fish contained.

BROOK TROUT abound in the streams, and the famous AMERICAN GRAYLING is found only in these waters.

THE TROUT SEASON begins May 1st, and ends September 1st. THE GRAYLING SEASON opens June 1st and ends November 1st.

BLACK BASS, PIKE, PICKEREL and MUSKALONGE also abound in large numbers in the many lakes and lakelets of this territory. The Sportsman can readily send trophies of his skill to his friends or "Club" at home, as ice for packing fish can be had at nearly all points.

TAKE YOUR FAMILY WITH YOU. The scenery of the North Woods and Lakes is very beautiful. The air is pure, dry and bracing.

THE CLIMATE is peculiarly beneficial to those suffering with HAY FEVER and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS.

THE HOTEL ACCOMMODATIONS are excellent, and will be largely increased in time for the season of 1891 by new buildings and additions.

During the season ROUND-TRIP EXCURSION TICKETS WILL BE SOLD AT LOW RATES, and attractive train facilities offered to Tourists and Sportsmen.

The Louisville Commercial.

Leading Republican Journal of the South.

DEVOTED TO POLITICS, LITERATURE, COMMERCE AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE COUNTRY.

Widely Circulated. Desirable Advertising Medium.

Politically, the Commercial maintains these principles of individual liberty, civil equality, public honesty, and efficient national unity and the supremacy of the National Constitution, on which the welfare of the country depends, and which is consequently important that the people of Kentucky and the Southern States should cordially adopt and act upon. It is an earnest and active friend of the development and prosperity of the South, on that foundation of justice and liberality founded which is the only safe basis of permanent, unimpaired and healthy progress. The Commercial is a free and frank supporter of all measures up to all questions of public interest. It will maintain and advocate its own opinions strongly, but will show due respect for the honest opinion of others.

ITS AIM IS TO BE JUST.

BOWLING GREEN. Situated at the confluence of Green and Barren rivers, at the head of navigation, in Warren county, of which it is the seat. The Green and Barren River Transportation Company make regular daily trips between this city and Evansville, stopping at all intermediate points. This city, of 6,000 inhabitants, is beautifully situated, and possesses advantages enjoyed by but few other cities in the State. It has a reservoir 235 feet above the city, which renders the use of fire-engines unnecessary. Its public parks are very handsome and attractive. An excellent telephone system connects it with Mining City, 60 miles distant. It has several manufactories, prominent among which are two stove-mills, flouring-mill, woolen-mill, two carriage factories, and a distillery. Several fine church edifices and good public schools are here, and the court-house, which is admitted to be one of the most magnificent structures in the State, and cost the county $150,000. The bonded indebtedness of the city is $130,000, with an assessed valuation of real and personal property of $2,250,000. In addition to its public school system, the city has educational advantages afforded by two excellent seminaries—the Ogden College and the Bowling Green Female College. Four banks are here, and two newspapers—the Bowling Green Democrat and Gazette—both of which are well-known and properly appreciated as first-class journals, than which no better can be found for advertising purposes. Gas and water-works are here. Besides the navigation facilities afforded by the rivers, the city also has the advantages which its position as an important station on the Memphis Division of the L. & N. R. R. gives it, and over which it ships large quantities of live stock, cereals and tobacco. Excellent hotel accommodations are provided by good hotels, the principal of which are the Morehead and the Ritter House. Both of which are first-class in every respect, are supplied with all modern conveniences, and receive the well-deserved patronage of the traveling public. One of the largest vineyards in the State is located here, which produces some 4,000 gallons of a very superior quality of wine yearly. Express Adams. Telegraph Western Union. Mail daily. W. E. Hobson, postmaster.

CARROLLTON. Located on the south bank of the Ohio river, at its confluence with the Kentucky, 62 miles northeast of Louisville. This town is the county-seat of Carroll county, is incorporated, and has a population of 1,600. The place was originally settled in 1794, when it was known as Port William, which was changed, in 1837, to its present name. Its shipping point, by rail, is English, 5 miles south-east on the L., C. & L. Ry. Carrollton is an enterprising and prosperous city, and contains 7 church edifices, representing the Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Methodist Episcopal, Christian, and Catholic sects, a seminary, and Catholic high-school, a good weekly newspaper, a woolen-mill, and several other mills, which all use steam power, and a bank. The assessed value on real and personal property in the city, is $500,000, and the town has no bonded indebtedness. The exports of the place comprise hay, corn, tobacco, and live stock. The nature of the land in the vicinity is rolling prairie and unimproved timber—the latter valued at an average price of $25, while cleared farms are worth from $40 to $100 per acre. The city is lighted with gas, and altogether, presents an elegant appearance. Stage communication with Northville twice a day (fare $1). Express Adams. Telephone connects the city with W. U. Telegraph company at Northville. Mail daily. John T. Lewis, postmaster.

COVINGTON. This city, the second in the State, is located in Kenton county, on the Ohio river, at its confluence with the Licking, directly opposite Cincinnati, with which it is connected by the largest single span wire suspension bridge in the world. It is also connected with Newport, on the opposite bank of the Licking river, by a wire bridge. The county-seat is Independence, 10 miles south, but the business is virtually carried on here, this place being the location of the court-house and county jail. It is the northern terminus of the K. C. R. R., and, among other points of interest, contains 24 church edifices, among which are 5 Catholic, 1 Episcopal,

2 Presbyterian, 3 Baptist and 2 Christian, and 6 public schools, employing 63 teachers, and having 3,279 scholars. The new post-office is a magnificent building, recently erected, at a cost of $250,000 in the most modern style of architecture. A glass-works, 5 distilleries, 4 breweries, 4 flour-mills, a stove foundry, 3 machine shops, 3 tobacco factories, a nail factory, a dry dock, and an opera house, with a seating capacity of 1,000, are also here. The city presents a most attractive appearance. Street-cars run on all the principal streets and avenues. Its corporate limits cover an area of 2,000 acres. Its bonded indebtedness amounts to $1,023,800, and it has an assessed valuation of $14,500,000. The Holly system of water-works and a paid fire department are sustained. The population, according to the census of 1880, is 31,000. The principal articles of export are tobacco, whisky, and glassware. Stage communication daily with Independence and Burlington, fare 50 cents and 81 respectively. Express Adams. Telegraph Western Union. Mrs. S. S. Farrell, postmaster.

for the various educational institutions for which it is famous. Among these we may mention the Kentucky State Institute for Deaf and Dumb, erected at a cost of $70,000, and which has 180 pupils; the Center College, for young men, in connection with the Church North, and under the Presbyterian synod of Kentucky, with an endowment fund of $250,000; the building cost $70,000; the library is a standard one, of 8,000 volumes; this college has 170 students; and the Danville Theological Seminary, under the auspices of the Presbyterian church. In addition to the above-mentioned institutions, there are 8 churches, 3 banks, a steam flouring-mill, and 2 first-class hotels, the Central and Clemens House, and 2 weekly newspapers, one of which, the Tribune, is one of the liveliest and strongest Republican newspapers in the South. It is published at $2 per year, and is the best Southern newspaper for advertisers. The Singer Manufacturing Company's Sewing-Machine parlor, on Third street, next door to post-office, is handsomely furnished, and has 20 wagons on the road which is a good indication that they are doing a live business. GEORGETOWN. This town, according to the census of 1880, has a population of 2,051, and is the county-seat of Scott, in the eastern part of the county, on the C. S. Ry., 12 miles north of Lexington, 18 north-east of Frankfort, 67 south of Cincinnati, and 89 east of Louisville. The place abounds in costly private residences and business blocks. Its educational facilities are extensive. Georgetown College, founded in 1829, is located here. In addition to the above, there are located here, Warrendale Female Seminary, Georgetown Seminary, Mrs. Ballou's, a free school and several private ones. There are six churches, as follows: Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Episcopal, and Catholic. There are also 2 banks, with an aggregate capital of $450,000—the Farmers' Bank of Kentucky is one of the prominent banks in the State, and is a branch of several banks, which, in the aggregate, represent over $1,000,000—2 steam flouring mills, a Masonic and public hall, two weekly newspapers, the Georgetown Times and Every Saturday, and 3 hotels, the most worthy of note being the Georgetown Hotel. The streets of the town are beautifully shaded and lighted with gas, and it receives an ample supply of water from the famous "Big Spring," which flows from a high bluff of limestone rock. Here are 2 banks, 2 flour-mills, 11 churches, a weekly newspaper, the Mercer Enterprise, a woolen-mill, and several hotels, among them the Commercial House, the leading one in the place, and one of the finest in this section of the country. A Shaker settlement has been located within five miles of here, for several years past, and is in a prosperous condition.

Harrodsburg is the site of Daughters' College, the most celebrated institution of learning in the Bluegrass district of Kentucky, established more than a quarter of a century ago, for the better and higher education of women. Its graduates are annually sought after to fill important positions in other schools of the West, so that it is, practically, one of the first Normal colleges of the country.

It is surrounded by beautiful and extensive grounds, and is supplied with a fine library, a good museum and cabinet, and all necessary chemical and physical apparatus. Its appointments are complete; four matrons and a superintendent have charge of the home, and eight teachers devote themselves to the school. Its musical methods are normal and conservatory. Its graduates are enrolled from every section of the Union, North, South, East and West. The institution is unsectarian. Stages to Frankfort and Mitchellsburg. Population 2,500. Adams Express. HARTFORD. The county-seat of Ohio county, is located on Rough creek, 110 miles south-west of Louisville, and 4½ miles from Beaver Dam, its shipping point on the P. & E. R. R. It has 2 daily stages to Beaver-Dam and a tri-weekly line of stages to Owensboro, the nearest shipping point, on the Ohio river. It has communication with Beaver Dam, McHenry, and Rockport by telephone, and a company is being formed to put up a line to Owensboro. Hartford was settled in 1783, the first county court was held in 1800, at which time it was selected as the county-seat. Incorporated 1808. There are Baptist, Methodist, and Cumberland Presbyterian church organizations, and also Baptist and Methodist colored churches. A very fine college building has been recently erected, employing 8 teachers, with 225 scholars, and the citizens enjoy the benefits of superior educational advantages—tution in the entire collegiate course being free to all the citizens of the town. There is a first-class steam and water flour-mill, with fine water-power. There are 3 blacksmith, plow, and wagon shops. The building and opening of Hartford College has given the town quite an impetus; the population has increased, and quite a number of new buildings were erected during the year 1880, and already (May, 1881), building has commenced. The bonded debt of the town is $4,500, issued in aid of Hartford College, and is being rapidly extinguished. The assessed value of property is $300,000. The court-house and jail are new, handsome and commodious buildings.
 A good hotel is also here. The exports are tobacco, live stock, lumber, and coal, the

HARTFORD HERALD, HARTFORD, KY.

BARRETT & BRO., Publishers.

Democratic—Circulation 2000—Established 1875—Size 26x40—4 pages, 8 columns to page.

One of the adjoining counties has no paper. An excellent advertising medium. Terms reasonable. As to circulation, influence and reliability, do not take the word of the publishers, but read the certificates of the following disinterested officials of the town and county in which it is published:

This is to certify, that as Post Master of Hartford, I have very good opportunities of ascertaining the circulation of the Herald, published here, as nearly all the papers issued to subscribers, in or out of the county, pass through this office.

My predecessor, Judge C. J. Lawton, in March, 1879, certified that the circulation of the Herald was then not less than 1800. I became Post Master July, 1879, and know beyond doubt that the circulation has increased since then, exactly how much I could not say, but think about 200.

This is a large county in area and population, having considerable mining interests, fifteen thriving little villages and towns, and sixteen post offices.

I regard the Herald as a good advertising medium, it having the reputation of being a reliable, progressive newspaper.

R. P. ROWE, Post Master, Hartford, Ky.

I am well acquainted with the Editors and Publishers of the Herald, Hartford, Ky., and am a regular reader of their paper. I regard it a reliable, newsy paper, one having the confidence of the public, and having a very large circulation for a local paper. Free from any suggestions from the publishers, I would estimate the circulation to be about 2000 copies.

HENDERSON. Situated on the left bank of the Ohio river, 10 miles south of Evansville, Ind., and midway between Louisville and Cairo, Ills., is this city, the seat of Henderson county. It is the northern terminus of the St. L. & S. E. div. of L. & N. R. R., 145 miles from Nashville and 171 from St. Louis, and is the central point in navigation of a number of river routes, among them the Ohio, Mississippi, Wabash, Cumberland and Tennessee. It is also a point of landing for regular lines of steamers, connecting Cincinnati and Louisville with Memphis and New Orleans, as well as for smaller boats which are constantly arriving and departing. Corn is grown in large quantities around Henderson, but its principal article of export is tobacco. There are 16 large stemmeries in operation, which shipped for the year 1880, 7,800 hhd. tobacco (over 15,000,000 pounds), the major part of which found a market in Europe. Coal is also an important article of export and is extensively mined. An abundance of hard wood timber is to be found in the neighborhood, which offers excellent inducements, in point of cheapness, to manufacturers who use such material. The city has an assessed valuation of $2,500,000, and a bonded debt of $500,000, and is lighted with gas, and employs a regular police force. Many of its private residences are costly and elegant, and its inhabitants are industrious and enterprising. It has an excellent system of water-works erected at a cost of $100,000. Its public school building cost $55,000, and is complete in all its appointments. It also has two excellent newspapers, the Henderson Reporter, weekly and tri-weekly, and The Henderson News; 10 churches, 2 banks, 4 good hotels, a foundry and machine shop, 3 distilleries, a brewery, a saw-mill, a planing-mill, a public hall, an extensive spoke-factory, 2 flour-mills, 2 brick-yards, an extensive drain tile works, and several fine business blocks. Western Union Telegraph. Southern Express. Daily mail. Population 6,573. Harvey Park, postmaster.

HENRY. Small post-office in Morgan county, 6 miles from West Liberty.

HICKMAN. On the Mississippi river, 40 miles below Cairo, Ills., 200 above Memphis. Is the county-seat of Fulton, and is the north-western terminus of the N., C. & St. L. R'y. Trains connect with steamers for Cairo, St. Louis, and points on the river. This town is now in a more prosperous condition than it ever was. A good opening is presented here for a bank. Settled in 1833, it was incorporated as a village in 1837, and as a city in 1853. It has a weekly newspaper, 3 churches, and a public school. The Hickman Lumber Manufacturing Company employ 75 men and manufacture lumber and furniture to a considerable extent. The Hickman Oil Company have recently completed their works at a cost of $60,000. The wagon-works of the celebrated Hickman Wagon Company will, probably, turn out some 2,000 this year. These last works give employment to nearly 100 men. It also has a plow and wagon factory, 2 flouring-mills, 3 cotton gins, and 2 good hotels, the chief of which is the Planters' House, recently reopened. Exports cotton, tobacco, grain and country produce. Western Union Telegraph. Southern Express. Population 1,600. Eliphalet Case, postmaster.

HOPKINSVILLE. The county seat of Christian, the fourth county in wealth and population in the State, was located and laid off in 1799, and was originally called Elizabethtown. It is prettily located on Little River, and upon the dividing line between the prairie lands of South-Christian and the hilly region in the northern part of the county. The lands embraced within the corporate limits are sufficiently rolling to afford good drainage, and the city is one of the healthiest in the Mississippi Valley. The city is situated on the L. & N. R. R., 71 miles from Nashville, 87 from Evansville, and 175 from Louisville. In 1870 the place had a population of about 3,000 souls, since which time it has nearly doubled. No city in the State has made more rapid progress during the past few years. Her tobacco market, which is not yet ten years old, is the third in importance in the State. Her location makes her the natural market of the largest and most productive tobacco growing region in the world. Her churches, 9 in number, are large, well-constructed, handsome buildings, and a fine new public school building has just been completed. The court-house, which cost $90,000, is one of the largest in the State, and is an ornament to the city. Among her more important business establishments: are 6 large tobacco warehouses, 3 extensive flour and grist-mills, 2 planing-mills, 3 banks, with an aggregate capital of $400,000, 2 hotels, one foundry, 3 carriage factories, one of which is owned by Messrs. McCamey, Bonte & Co., and is the largest in Western Kentucky; a plow factory, five tobacco re-handling houses, and 3 weekly newspapers. The Kentucky New Era (Dem.) is one of the most influential in the State. The South Kentuckian is also Democratic in politics, and is a prosperous, well-conducted sheet. The Republican is in politics what its name implies, and although recently established, bids fair to become an influential public organ. Its educational institutes are Bethel Female College (J. M. Rust, A. M., President), employing 10 teachers. This college is in a flourishing condition and is celebrated as one of the finest institutions in the State. The South Kentucky Female College, and the Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum are located here. The steam flouring-mill and grain elevator of Messrs. Rabbeth, Brownell & Co., and the planing and saw-mill, and sash, door and blind manufactory of Messrs. Brownell & Co. are particular institutions of this city. Western Union Telegraph. 5. School of Fine Arts.

One half of all fees payable in advance, the balance promptly at the close of the session; and if not paid or settled by the close, 8 per cent, will be added for collection. As the only endowment of the institution is the skill, energy and competency of the Faculty, and as the Faculty are expecting support from their labors, the necessity of adherence to this regulation is obvious. It is hoped that no one will disregard this necessity, unless by stipulation.

LEXINGTON. The county-seat of Fayette is located on the lower fork of the Elkhorn river. Its general appearance is very attractive, its streets are broad, paved, and lighted with gas, and are flanked on either side with handsome, substantial business blocks and private residences. It is especially celebrated for its educational institutions, among which are the Kentucky University, the State College of Kentucky, Sayer's Female Institute, Christ Church Seminary, and Hamilton Female College. This last-named institution is the largest and best-arranged building in the State, for the purpose for which it was erected. It is elegantly built, and as perfectly-ventilated as possible. It has all the modern improvements, being heated by steam, lighted with gas, and furnished with excellent suites of bath-rooms. It is favorably located in the northern limits of the city, and therefore free from much of the bustle that would be encountered, if located in the business portion of the city. The institution is the property of a joint-stock company, and, since its purchase in 1877 by the company, has been presided over by J. T. Patterson, who has been at the head of a female boarding-school for a greater number of consecutive years than any other man in the State. Under his management the college has grown to be the largest female boarding-school in Kentucky. The cemetery of Lexington, located at the western end of the city, is one of the most beautiful in the United States. The remains of many of the most illustrious men of the State, are interred here. In this cemetery is a fine monument erected to the memory of Henry Clay. It is 119 feet high, and surmounted by a life-size statue of the eminent statesman. The city has 7 churches of the various denominations, good public schools, 6 banks, 7 newspapers, viz: Transcript (daily and weekly), Banner (daily), Gazette (weekly), Apostolic (weekly), Live Stock Record (daily), and the Sun-Observer and Stock Journal monthly. Its bonded debt is $119,000, and, according to the census of 1880, it has a population of 16,626. Its railroad facilities are excellent; three roads, viz: the K. C., L. S. & L. and C. S. R. R's center here, and afford convenient transportation to all parts of the United States. Lexington is the site of the Transylvania Printing and Publishing Company, which was established in 1871, and commenced with a large and complete assortment of all material used in first-class printing and publishing houses. At the close of 1880 the company, by vote of stock-holders, concluded to discontinue business, and sold the entire outfit to Dr. W. O. Sweeney, Wm. H. Cassell, T. Logan Hocker and Wm. Plunkett, who now constitute the company, the two latter taking an active part in the business. The company will, by the close attention given, and the promptness with which they dispatch business, insure certain success. They are prepared to do all classes of fine printing, such as catalogues, bill-heads, wedding cards, letter and note-heads, as well as book-binding in all its departments. The trade of Lexington is extensive and various, and several manufacturing enterprises are carried on. Three good hotels are located here, the Phoenix, the Ashland House and the Southern Hotel. Stage communication with Lawrenceburg, by way of Versailles, daily, and to Richmond, twice a day. Express Adams. Telegraph Western Union. Mail daily. H. K. Milward, postmaster.

LOUISVILLE. The city of Louisville is the largest and most important city in Kentucky, and the second, in size, on the Ohio river. It is eligibly situated, in Jefferson county, about equi-distant between the eastern and western boundaries of the State. By rail, it is 110 miles from Cincinnati, 110 from Indianapolis, 423 from Pittsburg, 794 from Washington, 377 from Detroit, 537 from Buffalo, 956 from New York, 1,034 from Boston, 323 from St. Louis, and 350 from Chicago. The first settlement on the present site of the city was made as early as 1770, but no material improvements were made until 1780, which year, really, chronicled the birth of the city. Possessed of superior advantages, by its admirable location, it was but a short time before Louisville became, what it now is, the metropolis of the south-western States. Five trunk-lines, centering here, give it shipping facilities of no common order, and this, in connection with the river traffic, make it the shipping and receiving depot for the surrounding States. It is the southern terminus of the Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railway, which, running east and north, penetrates one of the finest agricultural regions of the State. It is the northern terminus of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, which, with its branches, traverse the large number of 2,460 miles. This road has lately consolidated with itself all the smaller lines through the western and southern portion of Kentucky, and the north-western part of Tennessee, and connects Louisville with the whole system of Southern railroads. It is, also, the southern terminus of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago Railroad, the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis, and the Ohio & Mississippi Railways. The former, a new and well-appointed road, lately completed to Chicago, and the two latter to Indianapolis and St. Louis, respectively. All these roads, connecting with the trunk-lines, East and West, afford Louisville excellent facilities of freight and passage, and, by virtue of the competition thus formed, ensure low rates. There is, also, a small local line—Louisville, Harrod's Creek & Westport Railroad—of 11 miles in length—between this city and Prospect. The Maritime interests comprise 7 regular packet-lines out of Louisville, which connect with others, on more than 16,000 miles of navigable rivers. These lines are: Louisville & Cincinnati U. S. Mail-line to Cincinnati; Louisville & Henderson Packet-line; the Cincinnati, Memphis & Ohio River Packet-line, between Cincinnati and Memphis; Cincinnati, Louisville & New Orleans Packet-line, between New Orleans and Cincinnati, and the Pittsburg, Huntington, Cincinnati & St. Louis Packet-line to Pittsburg and St. Louis; the Madison, and the Cincinnati and Tennessee River Packet-lines.

The tobacco, iron, and whisky interests of Louisville are the most extensive, although boots, shoes, leather, harness, breweries, paper, furniture, wagons and carriages and lumber, with a host of smaller enterprises, are sustained. In connection with the business interests of the city, should be mentioned some of the most prominent insurance firms and companies; of the former, Messrs. Barber & Castleman and Morris & Bayly are the chief, both firms operating an enormous business, and representing most of the best companies in the United States and England. The Louisville Underwriters (Fire), and the Southern Mutual (Life), are home institutions. The former, incorporated in 1866, has always maintained a high place of solvency, and, although it has not striven to do a large business, it has most earnest efforts to do a healthy one. Being in full sympathy with Southern sentiments, the Southern Mutual has an advantage over outside companies in competing for business in that section.

Two entirely new branches of commerce have lately taken a foothold in Louisville, and will, without doubt, become large factors in the commerce of the future. The Pietet Artificial Ice Company, of New York, has lately inaugurated a branch establishment here for the manufacture of ice, and is now doing a flourishing business. The Southern Dairy Company are engaged in the comparatively new industry of manufacturing oleomargarine with great success.

One of the principal features of the city is the bridge which spans the Ohio river at this point. It is over 5,000 feet in length, and has a height of 60 feet above low-water mark, and was completed in 1871. It is a solid and substantial structure, and a source of pride to the citizens. As this book passes through the press, another bridge, to connect the city with Jeffersonville, is under consideration, and will probably be erected in the near future. Louisville has 2 fine parks (Central and Floral), 3 libraries, the Polytechnic Society, of Louisville, Louisville Law Library, and Louisville Library Association. The first mentioned is the principal, and contains 3,700 volumes, in addition to magazines, reviews, etc.; is located in Public Library Building, and is under efficient management. The banking institutions of Louisville are 20 in number, and represent a total paid-up capital of $8,292,174. In addition to these, there are 5 private banks. The clearing-house report for 1880 shows a total of $29,415,416, and for the first six months of the present year, $188,539,512. This statement, compared with that of previous years, shows a steady and encouraging increase. The press is represented by 5 daily, 19 weekly and 8 monthly journals. Louisville is eminently a musical city, and contains 6 societies of this kind, and has 4 first-class theatres and entertainment halls, with a total seating capacity of 6,500. These, with its parks, already mentioned, and several minor theaters and places of resort, make up the amusement facilities. Its educational and religious institutions are equal to, if not superior to that of any city in the Union. There are 119 church edifices here, representing the various denominational creeds, as follows: 21 Roman Catholic, (1 col.), 17 Baptist (8 col.), 7 Christian (2 col.), 13 Episcopal (1 col.), 7 German Evangelical, 3 Lutheran, 2 Hebrew, 31 Methodist Episcopal (16 colored), 17 Presbyterian (1 colored), and 1 Unitarian. Besides these churches there are 10 Catholic convents and societies, and 2 Christian societies—"Young Men's" and "Women's." The public school system of Louisville is good. There are 28 school-buildings (5 colored), having an enrollment of 19,202 scholars, with a daily average attendance of 12,896, and employing 327 teachers. There are a number of medical and academical colleges here, among which must be mentioned the University of Louisville, Louisville Medical College, Hospital College of Medicine, Kentucky School of Medicine, Louisville College of Pharmacy, Kentucky (State) Institution for the Blind, the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, the Holyoke Academy, the Louisville Female Seminary of Miss Annie F. Noll, the Bryant & Stratton Commercial College, and the Scott Saxton College of Elocution and Oratory, and 28 hospitals, asylums and charitable institutions. Louisville boasts several fine public buildings and business blocks, prominent among which, are the Courier-Journal building, Board of Trade building, Public Library building, the Court-House, and the Custom-House, the Schurmann block, the Law Temple, and many others. The private residences are elegant and costly.

The hotels—an important feature in any city—are good, and present ample accommodation. The finest is the Louisville Hotel, the Galt House also ranking as a first-class house. Then we have the Standford, St. Cloud, Willard, Ruter's, Fifth Avenue, New Southern, Elliott, and others of various grades.

To obtain any mercantile and manufacturing statistics of this city is a difficult matter, and we present the following figures, for which we are indebted to the courtesy of Maj. J. M. Wright, the superintendent of the Board of Trade. This institution has only been in existence since 1879; previous to that time no reliable statistics can be obtained, and we therefore simply give a resume of the chief industries for the past year. By the establishment of this board a very decided impetus has been given to all classes of business in and around Louisville, and a marked increase can be noted during the comparatively short time it has been in operation. The following figures, in relation to the manufacturing interests for the year last past, will be appropriate:

Number of different kinds of business...	159
Number of establishments	1,191
Capital (real and personal) invested ...	$20,864,449
Greatest number of hands at any one time	21,937
Total wages paid during the year.....	$5,765,987
Value of material, including mill supplies and fuel	22,362,704
Value of product	35,908,538

In addition to the above there are 7 establishments for the manufacture of agricultural implements, 3 lumber and saw-mills, 10 grist and flouring-mills, 13 shoe factories, and 14 leather manufacturing, and 1 grain elevator.

The receipts and shipments of some of the leading commodities, during the year 1880, are appended:

It is to be regretted that space will not allow a more extended review of the business and manufacturing interests of Louisville. All classes of business show a steady and healthy increase, especially during the past two years, and with the increased enterprise and activity, which is apparent with all classes, the future of Louisville, as a great commercial center, is assured. The post-office report, for 1880, shows that the 32 carriers delivered 7,426,172 pieces of mail matter, and collected 3,999,408. The total number of pieces mailed was 22,429,784; 17,718 money orders, representing $244,912.50 were issued, and $6,932, or $1,297,349.32, were paid, and the sales on stamps amounted to $185,117.92. The report of the health commissioner is eminently favorable, and shows a much lower rate of mortality than that of any other city of its size in the Union. During the past decade the population of this city has increased at a rate of 25 per cent., and, according to the 1880 United States census, she now has 123,645 inhabitants within the limits. The city presents a most beautiful and attractive appearance—street cars run on all the principal streets, it is well lighted by gas, its water-works system is perfect. The fire and police departments are efficient in their management and appointment, and a better city government could not be obtained. The total bonded indebtedness amounts to $10,220,000, the annual interest amounting to $569,800, and the valuation of taxable property to $66,209,440. The American District Telegraph Company and Telephone Exchange, Atlantic & Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, American Union and Western Union Telegraph Companies, the Adams, the American, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railway, the L., N. A. & C. and the O. & M. express companies all have offices here. A daily stage runs to Bloomfield and Taylorsville: fare $1.50 each. Mail daily. Virginia C. Thompson, postmaster.

PICTET ARTIFICIAL ICE CO., (Limited.)

New York, November 27, 1877.

To the Pictet Artificial Ice Co., New York.

DEAR SIR: I testify with pleasure to the good qualities of the Artificial Ice manufactured by your company. It is compact and solid, clear, and lasts longer than natural ice. On account of its rectangular form it packs well in our compartments, and we can use it for all the purposes of cooling that we put natural ice to.

SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP
FEVER AND AGUE OR CHILLS AND FEVER.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Southern and Western country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. - It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

The genuine SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP must have Dr. JOHN BULL'S private stamp on each bottle. Dr. JOHN BULL only has the right to manufacture and sell the original JOHN J. SMITH'S TONIC SYRUP of Louisville, Ky. Examine well the label on each bottle. If my private stamp is not on each bottle, do not purchase or you will be deceived.

DR. JOHN BULL,

MANUFACTURER AND VENDER OF

Lift and Force Pumps

These pumps are adapted to wells and cisterns of any depth. They are made of Iron, are anti-freezing and durable. Price, $2.00 and upwards.

Some are not only adapted to the ordinary uses of a well or cistern, but also to the washing of windows, buildings and vehicles, watering lawns and gardens, and the extinguishing of fires. With these sort of hose, water can be thrown, with ease, over a two-story building, and, with sufficient hose, water can be forced to any part of the premises.

WOOD PUMPS.

These Pumps are made of the best of wood known for the purpose, as it does not corrupt the water, and is not injured by exposure to weather. They are adapted to any climate, as heat and cold do not affect them. They are made in different sizes, to raise water in greater or less volume, as may be required. Each Pump is provided with hard-wood back-suck and back-suck, by which the vent can be opened, without removing the platform, to clean the Pump, to prevent freezing, and yet retain its priming.

Fire Clay Flue Linings.

Very fine first-class linings are now on hand without flaking. Fire Clay Flue Linings either round or square, for each smoke line in the chimney, thus effectively protecting the building against fire, which so frequently originates from defective flue linings. These linings are also very generally used for hot-air flues instead of tin, for conducting the heat from furnaces to the several rooms of the house. They are not liable to rust out, and will last for many years, as they are made of the best of woodwork through which they pass. A large proportion of the fire clay linings are made of the best of safety against fire, secured by the use of Fire Clay Linings by inserting them in the place of the old flues, and they are otherwise would.

FIRE-CLAY CHIMNEYS.

These chimneys are safer, more durable, less expensive, and have better draft than brick chimneys. They will not crack from heater frost, nor will they stop up with soot. They are made in two-foot sections of pure fire clay. Light shipping weight. Any laborer can put them up.

STONEWARE SEWER PIPE,

FOR SEWERAGE, DRAINS, CULVERTS, &c.

Made of pure fire clays, hard burned, and well vitrified; made in two-foot sections, and from two to thirty inches in diameter.

CHIMNEY TOPS.

My stock of chimney tops are made of pure fire clay, and are of a handsome buff-white color. They are highly ornamental, as well as useful for stopping smoky chimneys, which is commonly caused by wind blowing into the top of the chimney, and obstructing the ascending current of smoke. These tops are made in such a shape as to throw up any transverse current of wind, and cause it to pass over the face instead of into it. They are easily applied to any ordinary chimney, and will retain their place on the chimney in windy weather. They are warranted to stand all kinds of weather and frost. Also guaranteed not to stop up with soot.

FOR INFORMATION ADDRESS THE SECRETARY.

THE FARMER'S MAGAZINE

Of Live Stock, Agricultural, Horticultural and General Information.

Published at 79 Fifth Street, Louisville, Ky.

JOHN DUNCAN, Editor and Owner.

Makes a specialty of the discussion of all topics bearing on the fine live-stock interests of Kentucky and neighboring States; tells how to breed and treat such stock every where; tells also how to improve common stock.

The FARMER'S MAGAZINE is a pure-toned Monthly Journal of forty pages—in all senses suitable for circulation in the refined homes of country gentlemen. A very valuable advertising medium for all who want to make their business known in, and secure trade from, such homes.

Yearly subscription price, $1 40. In clubs of five or more, $1 05 for each yearly subscription. In the case of large clubs, the sender may deduct the cost of Post-office Order from the amount.

The FARMER'S MAGAZINE has liberal clubbing arrangements with all the leading publications of the United States. Enquiries promptly answered. Address JOHN DUNCAN, as above.

LOUISVILLE OPEN FIRE PLACE M'FG CO.

This new corrugated iron back is adapted to any fire place. Its unrivaled heating and radiating qualities, and its saving in fuel, render it the most economical and best in use. The same principle is introduced in our open Library Stoves, which combine comfort, elegance, economy, good ventilation and even temperature. An up-stairs or adjoining room heated by register from the hot air chamber behind the grate. Further information cheerfully given at the Salesroom or by correspondence.

WM. CHILDERS and A. L. PARSONS, Proprietors.

Arrangements made with a limited number of responsible Foundries to manufacture and sell on royalty.

Can execute any design furnished by Architects; Terra Cotta or Plaster. Flue Linings and Flues Used for Chimneys.—Flue Linings are extensively used in first-class buildings, as it is impossible for a house to take fire from a chimney where these Linings are used. Flues are used in many places instead of brick, being lighter, cheaper and answer the purpose of a brick chimney.

U. S. CLAIM ATTORNEY.

R. J. BRYANT,

(Successor to O. M. ROOD.)

No. 343 Jefferson Street, below 9th,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

I am the Successor and Representative Attorney in all the unsettled War Claims originally filed by C. H. BARKLEY, BARKLEY & WATTS, DUNGAN & SMITH, J. ALLEN PORTER, H. H. BURKHOLDER, W. N. HOGAN, R. H. HIGGINS, S. M. BERNARD, and E. J. VAUGHAN, all formerly doing business as Claim Agents at Louisville, Ky., against the United States, and request that all communications in reference to any such claims be addressed under cover to me, and you will be promptly answered. Special care will be given to claims which have heretofore been rejected or suspended by the department, or ineffectually managed by the former Attorney. From my experience of ten years in collecting such claims, I have become thoroughly acquainted with the rights of claimants, and experienced in the adjustment of difficult and complicated cases resulting from loss of papers.

MAYTOWN. Morgan county (See Blackwater).

MAYSVILLE. Is the northern terminus of the Maysville branch of the K. C. R'y, and this, taken in connection with the superior shipping advantages presented by the Ohio river, make this city a point of considerable importance. It is beautifully situated on the southern bank of the river, 64 miles east of Cincinnati and 100 from Louisville, and is the seat of justice for Mason county. The mercantile and manufacturing interests here are extensive, and 2 good newspapers, a bank, several mills and factories, good public schools, and churches of the various denominations are sustained. The city has wide streets and avenues, is lighted with gas, and presents an attractive appearance. Good land is obtainable in the vicinity at reasonable prices. Cereals and tobacco form the chief exports. Twenty-four miles distant are the celebrated Blue Lick Springs, to which a daily stage runs. Population 6,500. Express Adams. Telegraph Western Union. Mail daily. John M. Stockton, postmaster.

MORGANFIELD. The county-seat of Union county, is situated 7 miles south of Uniontown, on the Ohio river, its nearest shipping point by water, and 15½ miles east of Shawneetown, Ill., its nearest railroad shipping point, on the St. L. & S. E. Ry, and is about 248 miles south-west of Louisville. It is an incorporated town, governed by a board of commissioners, and, since its settlement in 1811, has made rapid progress. It possesses a fine courthouse and jail, the former having cost $58,000, and the latter $26,000. Its educational facilities are excellent, and it has 4 churches in the place—1 Catholic (a very fine edifice, costing about $10,000), 1 Methodist, 1 Presbyterian, and 1 Christian—and, in addition, 3 churches for colored people. The town is pleasantly situated in the center of a very fertile district, about 500,000 pounds of tobacco being shipped annually. Daily stage to Henderson, and tri-weekly stage to Uniontown; weekly stage to Shawneetown. Express matter received at Uniontown, over the Adams Express line; and, connected with this, S. H. Davis & Bro. run a private express between Morganfield and Uniontown, receiving and delivering express matter at this place. Population (census of 1880) 735. Mail daily. C. C. Harris, postmaster.

town of Eastern Kentucky, the county-seat of Montgomery, is on the L., C. & L. R'y, east of Lexington 33 miles, of Frankfort 61, of Louisville 127. It is 87 miles west of Huntington, Va., where the Big Sandy and Chesapeake and Ohio R. R. connect.
No other town in Eastern Kentucky has as much enterprise and general business.
It is the distributing point for a very large territory. It is increasing in size and importance very rapidly and is incorporated.
There are two flourishing female colleges, a public school, 2 colored schools, a public library, 2 weekly newspapers—the Democrat (Friday), and the Sentinel (Wednesday). The Democrat is one of the largest and best papers in the State. It has a large circulation, and is edited by active, energetic young men. The churches are Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, Methodist, Episcopal, Catholic, and 2 colored. Besides all the ordinary trades, there is a woolen-mill, a planing-mill, a plow-handle factory, a tannery, 2 machine-shops, a flouring-mill, and a distillery. There is a daily stage to Owingsville, a tri-weekly stage to Sharpsburg, Carlisle, and Flemingsburg.
There are three banks, with a capital of $400,000, 4 hotels, of which the "Reese House" is the largest and best, with good livery connected, and the "National." A telegraph, express, 2 mails a day each way.
